TORONTO FINDINGS

The majority of the citizens of this city did their duty nobly and conscientiously, when they elected William James Stewart as mayor for 1931.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Jones and children motored down from Palgrave, on the first of the New Year, to spend the day with her father and other relatives, returning home the same evening.

The Frats held an installation ceremony at their headquarters on New Year's night, then followed an evening social. There was a good turnout and all report a good time.

Mrs. Ernest Peterkin, our assistant interpreter, who was laid up with a severe illness for a week following Christmas, is now out and around again, we are glad to mention. Mrs. Peterkin, whom many of the deaf still remember as the agile Minnie Slater, is an idol among us all, and her husband is also very popular.

Mr. Albert Siess, of Pontiac, Mich., was down in our city, over the weekend of January 3d, running into old acquaintances, who were so glad to meet him.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lloyd, accompanied by their children and the former's mother, motored down from Brantford on January 3d, and Howard, a dyed in the wool hockey fan, attended the Maple Leaf vs. Canadian hockey game at the Arena that evening, which our Maples won by 2 to 1, after a very hectic struggle. The whole party remained over until the following evening with relatives here and took in our Banner Sunday Service on the Sabbath.

Mrs. Nancy Moore and Mrs. Mabel Wilson, who had been sojourning with friends in Simcoe for a few weeks, returned to our midst on January 2d, beaming over with Florida-kiss smiles, which was indicative of a good time. The Bridgen Literary Society held its fortnightly meeting on January 3d, when its members passed several rules and regulations that are to be its steering windlass through the coming season. Several quaint old questions and riddles on various birds was the remaining topic of the evening.

Mrs. Sidney Walker was able to turn up at our service on January 4th, after being obliged to remain in her home for over a month with an attack of bronchitis and other ailments. She is now looking as well as ever.

Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Bell report having had a very enjoyable time with the latter's home folks down in Trenton. Nothing makes one more happier than to spend this merry-making day with "Ye old folks around the home fireside."

A year ago, we announced that prizes valued up to fifteen dollars would be given to the five persons of each of our three Sunday schools, who made the best attendance record, and throughout the past year careful records were kept, and the following are the luck of ones. West End—First, Mrs. J. H. Mason; second, Miss Ethel Griffith; third, Mr. A. W. Mason; fourth, David Lawrence; and fifth, Henry White. Wellesley Street—First, Miss Margaret Rea; second, Mrs. F. Boughton; third, Mrs. W. Watt; fourth, Mr. W. R. Watt; and fifth, Mr. Charles Elliott. Danforth Avenue—First, Horace Greig; second, Mrs. Lorne Colclough; third, Colin McLean; fourth, J. B. Stewart; and fifth, Arthur Walker. All have been given their prizes. The same competition is now on for the year 1931.

Our service at our church on the last Sunday of the old year was taken over by Mr. Fred Terrell, who, in the course of a well-explained and forcefully driven subject, gave an explanation of the meaning of the 23d Psalm, pointing out how our good Lord had suffered so much humiliation in order that we might have all the needs and comforts of this life. It was a very touching sermon and the unusual large turnout thoroughly relished it. A beautiful hymn, "How Jesus Loves Us," was pleasingly rendered by the Misses Edna Egginton, Caroline Buchanan and Erna Sole.

The Bridgen Literary Society, the Kieuwa Club and the Young People's Society, all of which are branches of our church, have again resumed their activities, after their two weeks dormancy, owing to the Yuletide recess. The Bible Class has also taken flame to the call of inspiration.

At our services on December 28th, messages of Christmas and New Year's greetings and wishes were received and read from two of our good and absent friends Miss Carrie Brethour, now convalescing down in Quebec, and Rev. August A. Staubitz, of Cincinnati, O. Such friendly and brotherly greetings were heartily reciprocated. We trust it won't be very long before Miss Brethour will be back in our midst again.

Mr. Herbert Fountain, who was working for one of the Sunoco Oil Companies for some time past, was recently laid off, on account of stock shortage. However, Herbert got temporary work over the Yuletide, helping his cousin to distribute election bills for vote catching.

Mrs. M. Moore and Mrs. M. Wilson have been away in Simcoe for a few weeks, visiting Mrs. William Baillie. Mr. William Sutton, and other old friends. As this is Mrs. Wilson's old home town, she had the pleasure of meeting her relatives and many old acquaintances. These two ladies do not intend returning to Philadelphia until February, if at all.

There were several New Year's Eve parties staged by our deaf friends here, and one of the jolliest of them all was the one given by Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Doyle, at their beautiful new home on Maxwell Avenue. Here a good number were invited to enjoy the evening of mirth and good-will.

Throughout the evening every minute was devoted to all kinds of new and varied games until midnight, when all drank to the coming in of the New Year and the departing of the old. Tasty refreshments were then served by the kind hostess, and after passing New Year's greetings all round every one departed in jolly spirits in the early hours of the New Year.

How three humble hearts did beat to overflowing with rapturous joy on the last day of the old year can be better imagined than described, as the following incident is related. On that morning the "Atlantic Flier" from Winnipeg had on board one, Mrs. Norman Crumb, formerly Miss Rosie Ross. On the platform at the New Union Station stood her dad and only sister, Mrs. Robert McKinley, of this city, with their eyes focused, with eager anticipation, on the coming flier. Down in their hearts there throbbed the pulsating joy and love, that only God and themselves could understand. Presently, the great mogul, with its long line of "Pullmans" and "Parlors," "Diners" and "Sleepers" was heard thundering down the grade towards them. How they did chuckle, how they did sway with uncontrollable emotion, as they saw their long expected hopes being fully realized. They were sure their darling daughter and sister was on board for they had previously received a wire from her stating she was on that train. Finally the train, coated with snow and icicles from the frigid north, but ejecting steam from penetrating outlets, came to a standstill and out stepped pretty looking, twenty-one year old Rosie, into the waiting arms of her dad and sister, amid an uncontrollable outburst of tears of joy, and at last the climax was reached, after seventeen years of futile search. Mr. J. W. Ross and his eldest daughter had tried in vain to locate Rosie, and though the task seemed almost unsurmountable, they never gave in, and now their untiring efforts have been crowned with success. On the other hand, Rosie never knew Mr. Ross and Mrs. McKinley were her real and natural father and sister until recently, having been called under a different name to shield her true identity. Mrs. Crumb is staying here until February.

WATERLOO WEEK BITS

Mr. Allan Nahrung spent Christmas at Belleville with his two sons, Wallace and Clarence, who are at their dad's Anna Mater.

Mr. Albert Siess, of Pontiac, Mich., was down for the Yuletide holidays visiting at the home of his sister in Kitchener, and mingled quite freely with the local deaf.

Mrs. Ida C. Robertson, of Preston, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Black in Kitchener, on December 24th, and the same evening, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Moynihan, Mrs. Albert

Siess and Mr. Gordon Meyer, called on them, and all made up a very pleasant social evening.

Mrs. W. K. Liddy, of Windsor, is, at time of writing, visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gabel, having come down for the Yuletide recess.

Your reporter of this locality recently heard from Mrs. Robert Sutton, who is now very comfortably settled with her brother, Mr. Thomas Leigh, at 606 Esterday Avenue, in Sault Ste Marie, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Black, and Messrs. J. A. Moynihan, Gordon Meyer and Albert Siess, spent Christmas at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Forsythe in Elmira, and report having had a great time and a dinner fit for a king, which was cooked and prepared by the genial hostess, Mrs. John Forsythe. Owing to impaired health, Mrs. Moynihan was obliged to remain at home, instead of going with this jolly bunch to Elmira.

Mrs. Chapelle, of Toronto, who is paying a lengthy visit to her daughter, Mrs. Absalom S. Martin, up here, had the misfortune to miss a step, fall and sprain her ankle very painfully forcing her take to her bed. We sincerely hope that, with a good rest, she will come through nicely, and without any aftermaths.

All the deaf in this locality are steadily employed, with the exception of Messrs. J. A. Moynihan and Gordon Meyer, both of whom are unemployed.

Your scribe wishes all your readers and others a prosperous and happy course as they venture into the New Year, now on its wings.

GENERAL CLEANINGS

Mr. Joseph B. Seidler, of Regina, Sask., who came to this country from Roumania a couple of years ago, and of whom a brief write-up appeared in these columns recently, was taken to the Regina General Hospital on December 18th, and operated on for the removal of his tonsils, and is now almost himself again.

When Miss Helen A. Middleton left Toronto on Christmas morning for her home at Horning Mills, there was hardly a vestige of snow in the "Queen City," but when she had to wait at Shelburne for several hours until her dad, who had left to meet her train, could get over the nine miles of snow-bound highway. He first left in his car, but had hardly gone far when forced to turn back, on account of the deep snow, but returned with horse and cutter and completed the journey. At time of writing, the open country upon the Caledon Mountains has a mantle of the beautiful from three to five feet deep.

Mr. and Mrs. Jontie Henderson, of Sarnia, had the pleasure of entertaining the latter's sister, Mrs. Culver B. Bowly, of Simcoe, over the recent holidays. Mrs. William Wark, of Wyoming, was also a guest of the Hendersons on December 18th.

We are greatly pleased to say that Mrs. Byron B. Baillie, of Simcoe, who had been very seriously ill for a good while lately, is now almost her vigorous self again. She is well-known and greatly beloved by her deaf. Her late husband was formerly Mayor of Simcoe.

We regret to say that the father of Miss May Mitchell, formerly of Collingwood, but now of Toronto, died in the "Queen City" lately. Since leaving the Belleville school many years ago, Miss Mitchell has not mingled with her deaf friends very much, being of a recluse nature.

We have just heard, at time of writing, that a very distressing accident befell our friend, Mrs. Leo Coughlin, of Buffalo. From meagre reports received at this time, it seems that when she was alighting from a street car, she was struck by a hit and run motorist and thrown violently on the pavement, with the result that she was very painfully injured, receiving many facial and body lacerations. We hope her injuries are not too serious as to leave any after-effects. Before her marriage Mrs. Coughlin was Miss Grace McCann, of Toronto, and a graduate of the Belleville school.

Our old friend, Mr. William Sutton, of Simcoe, who is well over eighty years, is now taking his sunset very leisurely and spends most of his time napping in his easy chair. Since disposing of his large interests in that town, he has been living in a very fashionable and luxuriously equipped home with his niece, Mrs. B. B. Baillie. HERBERT W. ROBERTS.

SEATTLE

The big annual Frat New Year Party took place the evening of December 31st. It was held again at the American Legion Hall, that being so spacious and convenient, with several rooms, a stage, and a handy kitchen, that it was difficult to find equal accommodations elsewhere. There were about a hundred present, though not so many as usual came from out-of-town, and some familiar faces were missed. Nevertheless the crowd was a good one, considering present industrial conditions, and a jolly time was had by all who came. The distinguishing feature of this year's party was a good stage programme, under the direction of such expert entertainers as Oscar Sanders, Rex Oliver, Roy Bradbury, Ed Martin, and others. It opened with two clog or tap dances by two young hearing ladies, then followed a number of comical pieces which we shall not attempt to describe, but which were all clever and well executed. L. O. Christenson gave a very good fishing pantomime which recalled to mind that master of signs and old teacher of his, Mr. D'Estrella. Miss Eva Hoganson rendered a skit very charmingly and gracefully. It depicted the life of a girl through her school life, adolescence, courtship and marriage, till children and heavy housework brought disillusion. She employed both signs and pantomime. Several boxes of candy were awarded the holders of lucky numbers, drawn from a box by one of the little Frederickson boys. Mrs. Bertram, Harold Hoganson, and Lance Evans were winners. The lunch counter did a rushing business. Tea, coffee, milk, root-beer, various sandwiches and pies, hot-dogs, cake, doughnuts and ice cream were sold in large quantities.

Mr. A. C. Muller, the father of Robert C. died at Shelby, N. C., on December 16th, following a serious operation. His advanced age of eighty-two made it impossible for him to survive. He was a retired capitalist, a benevolent and public spirited man, and a staunch Presbyterian, serving as elder and Sunday School superintendent for thirty years. For nearly thirty years he served on the board of trustees of the State School for the Deaf at Morganton, N. C., and was a trustee of Queens College, Charlotte, a director of Westminster school, and a member of the Presbyterian home mission board. He was a director of the First National Bank, and president of the Shelby and Cleveland County Building and Loan Association. He was otherwise connected with the business and religious life of the community and had a leading part in building up the town of Shelby. He leaves a widow and three sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rogers and the mother of the former came to spend Christmas on Queen Anne Hill with Mr. and Mrs. Canthorn. Robert had to go back the evening of Christmas Day, to keep at his job at a garage in Ellensburg, but his wife and mother and two little sons stayed over till Sunday. Mrs. Rogers expressed her admiration of our beautiful display of outdoor-illuminated and decorated Christmas trees. She said they transported her to fairyland.

Among the many beautiful cards and Christmas greetings received this year, there was a very original letter written in cowboy style from Troy E. Hill, of Dallas, Texas. On the back of Jimmy Meagher's card appeared the following verse:—

"My little man, you make me laugh,
To think you want my autograph,
So Aggie sang in days of old,
When Alice's hair was gleaming gold.
You sang in chaff,
Now, dang you, laff.
The autograph
Am-is-are-here:
Meagher."

Misses Julia Cante and Ethel Newman spent the Christmas week-end in town at the Evangeline Hotel. Miss Genevieve Sink came Monday evening, December 29th, and the next day her sister, Mrs. Graham, had two tables at bridge as a surprise for her. The first prize was won by Mrs. Hanson, the second by Mrs. Austin, and the booby by Miss Newman. After the bridge party Misses Cante and Newman remained as dinner guests of Mrs. Graham. They left for the State school, where they are both teachers, as Mr. W. S. Hunter was taking them in his car. We are sorry they could not stay for the big Frat party.

Miss Sink is to be the honor guest tonight at a dinner party given by her sister. She leaves early tomorrow morning to resume her duties as small boys' supervisor at the State school.

On December 28th, we went in our old family chariot out to the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Oliver at Beverly Park, Everett. After driving through miles of chilly air and fog, we arrived with good appetites. Mrs. Oliver had a fine chicken dinner ready for us, and we thoroughly enjoyed it. We saw little Betty's Christmas tree and the table and crib made by her dad, which were such a surprise (?) to her, and enjoyed our visit so much that we did not want to go home. Rex is well-read and a good conversationalist and first-class entertainer.

In our stocking this year we found a handsome waffle-iron, sent by thirty of our deaf friends. We are very proud of it, and hope to bake waffles on it for all of the thirty.

Through the courtesy of Mrs. Burgett, we received a clipping from a Tacoma paper containing an account of the sudden death from a heart attack of Mr. Walter J. Barnes, sexton at Christ Church. He died as he was starting a fire in the furnace at the church. We are very sorry to think we shall not see this pleasant gentleman again. He always met us with a smile and a handshake when we went to hold services at the church, and frequently stayed through the service, even though he did not understand signs.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Martin and their little daughter, Nancy, drove up from California to spend Christmas with us. They left Oakland about noon December 23d, Tuesday, and drove their car continuously for thirty hours, except for the briefest stops for meals. Going through Oregon they encountered a fog that froze on the windshield so that they could only creep along and had to sound their horn almost continuously. They reached our home about 7 p.m. Christmas eve, and Marty said with reason that he was tired. It was certainly great to have them, and to watch the delight of our wee granddaughter in the tree and her toys. The visitors had to be back in Oakland before Monday, the 29th, so they left early in the afternoon of the 26th, on the return, in order to take it a little easier and stop for the night at the home of a sister of Mr. Martin at Washington. They drove a new Ford tudor coach, and found its performance very satisfactory.

Alice Hanson called us up from New York City. Helen sitting in the kitchen, and Alice in her flat in New York had a clear and satisfactory talk. Helen said that Alice's voice was unmistakable, and as plain as though she were talking through a rhinoceros in the next block. The rate for three minutes long distance was $5.50. She said it without a murmur, feeling that it was worth it.

Alice Hanson has accepted a position on a committee appointed by President Hoover to investigate unemployment. This committee is headed by Mr. Lynde, a well-known author. Alice has her own office in a fine building and a stenographer, and expects to collect an amount of data which she can later use in her thesis.

OHIO

News items for this column can be sent to Miss B. M. Edgar, 56 Latta Avenue, Columbus, Ohio.

Christmas at the Ohio home was a very happy time for the residents and each received a treat or a present of some kind. Several societies through the state sent in gifts of money. The Columbus Ladies' Aid Society and the Advance Society sent out treats under the direction of committees. Mrs. Huffman, Mrs. Elsey, Mrs. Wark and Mrs. Murphy represented the Ladies' Aid, and Messrs. Zorn, Wark and Essey acted for the Advance Society.

The Tuesday before Christmas Rev. F. C. Smielau conducted a service and administered the Holy Communion. After the services he distributed packages of Christmas cards to all the residents. Many of the residents received boxes from relatives.

Those students who were compelled to remain at school for the vacation report having enjoyed every day. They were taken to a large indoor circus one day, and the next received an invitation from the great magician, Thurston, to be his guests the next afternoon. Of course that was the greatest treat of all, and those who went home were truly envious of the few who were Thurston's guests, as they related his wonderful doings. When Thurston comes to his boyhood home, Columbus, he always gathers in as many children as possible, giving them free entertainment and the students at the school are never forgotten. The whole school has often been his guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Steele, of Akron, have been the guests of their daughters in Columbus for a few weeks. Her daughters are Miss Nellie Gillespie and Mrs. Russell Moore. Mrs. Alma Reid, of Florida, has been spending some time with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. Wark, in Columbus. Wonder how she enjoyed our Ohio winter weather.

Mrs. Clara Leib has left Columbus to be with her daughter, Mrs. Fay Lyons in Huntington, Ind., for an indefinite time. Mrs. Leib has not been in the best of health for the past year.

Mr. Hiram Bard, of Cleveland, was the guest of his twin sister, Mrs. Simon Kingry, and her husband during the month of December. The twins are getting along in years now but are in good health.

Mr. Benjamin Osborne, who was the farmer at the Ohio Home for a few years, is in poor health now. He and his wife are living near Galena, O.

Mr. H. Sloane, of Fostoria, recently was compelled to go to a hospital on account of illness. His faithful dog had to be allowed to remain in his room, as it refused to leave its master. Maybe the dog did not have faith in the nurses and decided to watch them.

It was pleasing to the Ohio deaf to have money sent in so liberally to help in the trial of Mr. Durian (Deaf) against a hearing man for damages resulting from an auto accident. It seems from accounts Mr. Durian is not all at fault, but as he is deaf, the hearing people blame him. Mr. Ayers sent out an appeal for funds to help Mr. Durian employ a lawyer. So far, $218.85 has been given. The following from a letter from Mr. Ayers, in the A. D. C., explains how some out of Ohio look upon this suit.

Superintendent Roy F. Nilson, of the Arizona School for the Deaf, sent in a check for $2 to add to the fund, with the following explanation:—"Dear Mr. Ayers: From the facts as presented in your article in the Ohio Chronicle for November 22d, the deaf man should win the case. This is an issue that not only concerns the deaf of Ohio, but all the deaf of the United States. Enclosed find a small check to assist in this case, and we hope the deaf man will win."
(Signed) Roy F. Nilson."

According to the San Francisco Tribune of November 28th, the famous deaf sculptor, Douglas Tilden, was found in his small studio in rather destitute straits. When found, friends were called and came to the rescue of the penniless man. When the article was first read, I could hardly believe the story. Seems he was too proud to let his circumstances, be known to his friends.

It is reported that the Goodyear Company of Akron began January 5th operating on an eight-hour day, five days a week through January and February. They had been running on a six-hour day, four days a week. This is the company where many deaf are employed. Of course no new workers are wanted, as there are about eighteen thousand now employed.

In most of the Ohio cities, the unemployment situation remains the same. Every few days, one hears of a few being called back to work. Everyone is hoping for better times in 1931.

Portland, Oregon

The Portland deaf turned out to celebrate the passing of the old year, and welcoming the New Year at Harmony Hall, Wednesday night, December 31st. Nearly one hundred enjoyed the event. Many new games were played and prizes awarded. The party was under the auspices of the Portland Division, No. 41, N. F. S. D., captained by Mr. Miles Sanders, aided by Mr. Lynch, Mr. Spratten, Mr. Norton, Mr. Lee and Mr. Fred Wronack.

The watch night party ended with hot dogs and coffee. Mr. Edwin McNeal, of Vancouver, Wash., was married so suddenly that his many friends did not learn the bride's name until later. He married a Miss Nutton, formerly employed at the Vancouver deaf school. Their many friends at Portland and Vancouver wish them a long and happy married life.

Mr. Robert Seibert was presented a fine wrist watch by his brother for Christmas. The latter is manager of one of Portland's big furniture stores. Mr. W. W. McClain, of Aberdeen, Wash., was a visitor among the deaf here during the week-end of January 3d. He attended the Frat meeting, of which he is a member. Mr. McClain left for Salem and other Oregon points, looking for a piece of land. He is a former rancher and sold out some years ago, but will go back farming if a suitable tract can be found.

Under the auspices of the Portland Division, No. 41, N. F. S. D., a masquerade party and dance will be held on Saturday night, February 21st, in the W. O. W. Temple, corner East Alder and Sixth Streets. Cash prizes for the most beautiful, comical and original costumes. All welcome. Refreshments free. Admission 50 cents, with costumes 25 cents.

Mr. L. LaFave, of Salem, underwent an operation recently at a Salem hospital, and is now home doing nicely, and will be back to work in a couple of weeks.

Mr. Courtland Greenwald, who underwent a serious operation the last part of November, is doing fairly well but slow, and will not be able to return to work until February or March. Ballard, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Linde, became a member of the Boy Scouts recently. Ballard is a very bright and smart boy for his age. They have another bright boy, who started to go to school two years ago. Their father holds down a fine position at a local newspaper office, where he has worked about sixteen years or more.

A Happy New Year to all readers.

Deaf-Mutes' Journal

NEW YORK, JANUARY 15, 1931

EDWIN A. HODGSON, Editor
WM. A. RENNERT, Assistant Editor

THE DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL (published by the New York Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb, at 163d Street and Fort Washington Avenue) is issued every Thursday; it is the best paper for deaf-mutes published; it contains the latest news and correspondence; the best writers contribute to it.

TERMS

One Copy, one year, $2.00
To Canada and Foreign Countries $2.50

CONTRIBUTIONS

All contributions must be accompanied with the name and address of the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith. Correspondents are alone responsible for views and opinions expressed in their communications.

Contributions, subscriptions and business letters, to be sent to the

DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL,
Station M. New York City.

"He's true to God who's true to man; Whenever wrong is done To the humblest and the weakest 'Neath the all-beholding sun, That wrong is also done to us, And they are slaves most base, Whose love of right is for themselves, And not for all the race."

Notice concerning the whereabouts of individuals will be charged at the rate of ten cents a line.

Specimen copies sent to any address on receipt of five cents.

It is now over a month ago that press clippings were sent in, announcing the destitute condition of the great deaf-mute sculptor of California. It appeared at first reading incredible. That Douglas Tilden, whose sculptured creations embellish the busy sections of San Francisco and his beautiful Golden Gate Park should be reduced to penury, was beyond the comprehension of many of his friends who remembered him in the days of his virile successes. Some one, or several must be gloatingly exaggerating. The JOURNAL is published for the benefit of the deaf and would not print anything to the detriment of one of them, however humble or prominent his station might be. But the number of clippings has increased, and even the papers published in the interests of the deaf have reprinted them. Therefore it would seem the wisest course would be to state the facts as they really are, and to that end is printed, in another column of this issue, an article from a San Francisco daily, that tells what is more likely a true story than any of the garbled statements that have yet appeared. Tilden is now a man of seventy years, with the proud and dominant spirit that has always distinguished him. The flame of his genius still burns high. Artistic accomplishment is the ambition of every true sculptor, not the commercialized value by which success is commonly measured. Being a genius, he conceives of things differently from the ordinary man. California should be proud of its native son, whose achievements in the line of art are visible, inspiring and beautiful. The statue of Junipero Serra in Golden Gate Park, the Soldiers Monument and the Mechanics Fountain, in the much traversed streets of San Francisco, stamp him as great. His present plight is the same as many who lived unheeded, but after they died were immortalized for their literary or artistic achievements. To enumerate those whose genius in life was unappreciated would include many great men. We have never forgotten a couplet learned while at school, which runs: "Seven cities vied for Homer dead, where Homer living begged his bread." Though not in Homer's class, Douglas Tilden is a fine writer, a fair painter in oils, an acknowledged sculptor of high degree, all of which are evidences of his greatness. Through his eccentricities he alienated many friends, the strata of his ideas being on a plane that did not invite sympathy. Consequently he studied and worked alone. His pride was hurt, but not his power. Greatness compels isolation. Some poet has written a couplet of verses that are applicable in a general way to those whose work is so high that it segregates them from the masses—the penalty of being lofty in mind and attitude. As near as memory can get they read as follows:—

"He moved in glory on the hills
We daisies envied from afar,
The peaks and sunset pinnacles
That placed him high the morning star.

"Upon the heights we found him dead,
And then we wondered if he sighed
For our soft grass beneath his head,
For our low huts before he died."

Los Angeles, Cal.

The Los Angeles deaf were well provided with holiday entertainments by the various clubs, and individual celebrations and parties at their homes. It is also reported that many of them went to Pasadena on New Year's Day and were fascinated by the beautiful floats in the 42d annual Tournament of Roses. Miss Annabelle Kent, Mrs. Thomas Marsden and Mrs. John Barrett, saw the parade from seats on a church lawn, afterwards having lunch at the home of the Marsdens in Pasadena, who had many callers that afternoon, reminding one of the old custom of making New Year's calls. The Los Angeles Silent Club had their Christmas entertainment on December 20th. There was a beautiful tree and a playlet arranged by Clarence Murday and his committee. It showed a scene in a gentleman's household in the year 1850. The actors were Mr. Murday, Mrs. J. K. Watson, Mrs. Simon Himmelschein, and Mrs. Earl Lewis as the negro servant furnishing the necessary touch of comedy. During the play Mr. Murday told of the birth of the Christ-child and the origin of Christmas and something of the effects of Christianity on the world. Mesdames Watson and Himmelschein were dressed in beautiful costumes of the 1850 style. Mrs. Watson declaimed "Glad, Christmas Bells," and Mrs. Himmelschein, "Silent Night, Holy Night," in a graceful and effective manner. Finally Santa Claus appeared struggling under a heavy sack. After some dialogue with the actors the distribution of presents and Christmas cards began.

Admission was free and a big crowd was present, and all, including the non-members, received a box of candy. Los Angeles Silent Club has been doing well the past year, when one considers the hard times.

The Publicity Committee, which sends out the programs each month, in the December program included a statement about the Building Fund from which we quote a part which is of general interest. "A little over $100 was made at the recent bazaar and $75 has already been deposited in the Building Fund. When the interest is added January first, there will be close to $2,800.00 in the fund. Since the money was transferred to the Fidelity Savings and Loan Association, July 1, 1929, the club has earned $290.00, and interest earned $146.05, making $436.95 added to the fund in the last two years. That is pretty good, considering the times. Again, thanks to all who have made all this possible."

The Athletic Club for the Deaf had a Christmas tree and a shadow pantomime on Christmas evening. Mrs. Kenneth Willman, who had been chairman of the social meetings for December, was also chairman for the evening. The shadow picture depicted scenes in Santa Claus' workshop, making toys, filling his pack and finally appearing among the expectant kiddies. There was a big pile of presents and Christmas cards under the tree. It certainly is a good idea to take Christmas cards to the Christmas entertainment to be distributed, as more people can be remembered and the mail carriers are relieved of a tiny bit of their burden. Boxes of candy, apples and oranges, were given to every one, including a big crowd of visitors, as admission was free.

December was the month for election of officers of the various clubs and societies. At their meeting on December 3d, the Sunshine Circle elected the following: President, Mrs. Getrude J. Singleton; Vice-President, Mrs. Estella Thompson; Second Vice-President, Mrs. Tage Samuelson; Secretary, Mrs. May Cook; Treasurer, Mrs. Augusta Barrett.

The Frats elected these officers on December 6th: President, Mr. Thomas Marsden; Vice-President, Mr. Burruss; Secretary, Clarence H. Doane; Treasurer, William C. Brooks; Director, Mr. Doodson; Sergeant-at-Arms, Tage Samuelson; Trustee, Simon Himmelschein.

The Athletic Club of the Deaf, at their business meeting on December 10th, elected the following: President, Andrew Genner; Vice-President, Isie Zenk; Secretary, Henry Patrick; Treasurer, Charles Boss; Board of Governors, Mrs. Grace Noth, Messrs. Frank Burson and Kenneth Willman.

The officers of the Los Angeles Silent Club for 1931 are: President, Clarence Murday; Vice-President, Mrs. Susan Reddick; Secretary, Miss Lenore Bible; Treasurer, Mrs. Isom Haworth; Directors, David Reddick, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Schneider, Charles Boss, Mesdames L. H. Wilder, Annie Ward, Jennie Weller, Annie Smith, Grace Noah, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Cordero and William Cook.

The Evangelical Association of the Deaf of Los Angeles is a non-sectarian congregation, which has religious services every Sunday afternoon, at three o'clock, at First Methodist Episcopal Church, Room 15, Hope Street, corner of Eighth. Rev. Clarence E. Webb organized it about four years ago, but as he is rector of the (hearing) St. Andrew's Protestant Episcopal Church, he cannot devote much time to it; therefore he is assisted in discharging his duties by a committee elected at the annual business meeting in December. The committee recently elected consists of Thomas Marsden, Daniel Moran, Miss Annabelle Kent, Mr. Wolverton, and the auditing committee composed of Mr. Norman Lewis, Mr. Lett, and Mrs. Augusta Barrett.

On Sunday afternoon, December 14th, there was a "Fellowship" meeting in Room 24 of the above church, when the E. A. D. and the Full Gospel Church combined and invited Rev. Leitzell, pastor of the First M. E. Church, to deliver the sermon. A general invitation had been broadcast to the Los Angeles deaf to attend, and there were about eighty-five present. Rev. Leitzell's discourse was very inspiring and interesting, the burden of it being the need of and the good results accruing from "Cooperation." This was ably interpreted by Mrs. Elsie Peters, who also interpreted the remarks of Rev. Webb and the hymns for some hearing people who were present. The hymns, interspersed during the services, were by Mr. and Mrs. Guy Walker, Mrs. Norman Lewis and Mrs. Thomas Marsden, the latter signing "The Gospel Ship," which is such a favorite of the revivalist, Rev. Duncan. The next "Fellowship" meeting will be on January 18th at the Full Gospel Church for the Deaf, 216 East Thirty-first Street, Los Angeles.

Mrs. John W. Barrett entertained at a bridge supper in honor of Mrs. Minnie Holloway on December 5th. Twelve ladies were invited, who played bridge, which game is slowly gaining in popularity here. First prize was won by Mrs. W. H. Rotherth and second by Mrs. Nellie Roberts.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Osterberg, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, are the latest additions to the Iowa colony. They arrived in their Hupmobile the day after Thanksgiving. They hoped to arrive for Thanksgiving dinner with Mrs. Osterberg's brother, but they didn't quite make it. They will spend the winter here, returning in their car to Iowa in the Spring and later going to the Frat convention in Boston. With Mr. and Mrs. Sam Brown as guides, they saw the New Year's Day parade at Pasadena.

Miss Cora Denton took Mrs. Minnie Holloway and Mrs. Annie Smith in her car to see the same parade. They got home before the rain late that afternoon, indicating Miss Denton is a good and careful driver, as there is always a terrific traffic on those roads on New Year's Day. Another deaf lady who is a good driver is Mrs. J. D. Tate. One afternoon recently she took Mesdames Holloway, Annie Smith and Cordero, to Long Beach in her car, and they saw the "Pike" and visited one of the ships there.

Mrs. Grace Noah had a party the evening of January 3d. Three tables played at bridge, and afterwards delicious refreshments were served. Prizes were won by Mrs. W. H. Rotherth and Mrs. Ernest Bingham. Mrs. Noah entertained at another party the next afternoon.

A committee of ladies went by street railway and bus on December 18th, to the Los Angeles County Poor Farm at Honda. They were a party from the Sunshine Circle and carried boxes of Christmas goodies and gifts for eight deaf patients at the Farm. Mrs. Singleton had arranged by correspondence with the superintendent that the deaf people be gathered in one place, and they were in one of the cottage reception rooms except two who are bedridden. The ladies were given circulars of information about the Farm; there are 2500 patients there and only eight of these are deaf! The ladies in the party were Mesdames Singleton, Scheffer, Field, Barrett, Hatcher, Holloway, Annie Smith, Cook and Leslie Ross.

ABRAM HALL.

Complimentary Dinner

A complimentary dinner was tendered to Mr. Charles LeClercq by the Men's Club of St. Ann's Church on Thursday evening, in the tea room. Mr. LeClercq was at one time president of the club, and all the past presidents sat with him at his table. The new stove and steam table at the church worked to the entire satisfaction of the volunteer cooks—Mesdames Stern, Kent and McCluskey—and the excellent menu was greatly enjoyed by all. Misses Klaus and Hall served as waitresses. Short speeches and cigars concluded the happy occasion, in time for all to attend the regular parish meeting of the church, at which Mr. LeClercq gave very interesting reminiscences of the church. Mr. LeClercq left for his home on the 10th, and the best wishes of the parishioners go with him.

PHILADELPHIA

News items for this column should be sent to James S. Reider, 1538 North Dover Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

No doubt many of our former readers, especially those in our locality, have been wondering why the Philadelphia correspondent has not functioned for several weeks past. Well, we can only repeat that it is hard to fill a column or so with news items each week, unless the friends of the JOURNAL show more interest in the paper and supply us with information regarding the doings of the deaf. There was a time when such information was supplied freely and in varied amount, so that we had no difficulty to fill our allotted space regularly. This time has passed, or at least we cannot depend upon the assistance given us in former times. And why? Because conditions have changed. Once All Souls' Church was almost the only exchange for news information about the deaf in this locality, but now there are no less than six factions or places, from which to glean information for our column. Four of these hold their meetings at the same time on Sunday afternoon, so it cannot be expected that we can cover them. And Sunday evening is the time to mail our copy to the paper to insure its appearance in the following issue of the JOURNAL.

Therefore, we obviously need help and plead for it.

Two of our older deaf passed away only a day apart in the latter part of December. The first one was John Tarry, of Chester, Pa., and formerly of Philadelphia. He died in the Chester Hospital on December 23d, of cancer of the stomach, and was past sixty years of age. He was a graduate of the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf, and a textile weaver. His wife, who is a graduate of the Columbia Institution in Washington, D. C., and two daughters, one grown up and the other in her teens, survive the deceased. Mr. Tarry was a man of excellent character and will be sadly missed at home and by his friends here and elsewhere. His funeral took place on Saturday, December 27th, the Rev. Warren M. Smaltz and a Baptist minister officiating. Burial was in Lawncroft Cemetery at Marcus Hook.

The second death was that of Charles H. Sharrar, who was past seventy years of age, an inmate of the Home for Aged and Infirm Deaf at Torresdale. He was also a graduate of the Pennsylvania Institution during the Foster regime, and he was very well-known here. He was sexton of All Souls' Church for a time, but the illness of his wife, who died several years ago, compelled him to relinquish the position. He had a good character, but the death of his wife, to whom he was a devoted husband, made him seem morose, though he tried to bear his loss bravely at all times.

John J. Allen lost his father by death on last December 11th, and has the sympathy of his friends here. All Souls' Christmas festival was held on December 27th, as usual.

Mr. James H. Richards has succeeded Mr. Charles H. Pennell as Treasurer of All Souls' Church for the Deaf. Mr. Pennell has held the position for a good many years and retired on account of very poor eyesight in both eyes.

Mr. and Mrs. James S. Reider, who both spent the Christmas and New Year's holidays with their daughter in York, Pa., returned home on January 4th last. They were gone about two weeks.

T. BROOM BELFIELD

T. Broom Belfield, retired manufacturer, a prominent layman of the Episcopal Church, philanthropist and member of leading scientific societies, died Saturday, January 3d, at his home, 1905 Spring Garden Street. He was ninety-two.

Funeral services were held at at Christ Church, Second Street, above Market.

Mr. Belfield was born in this city, November 8, 1838. At the age of twenty he became associated with his father, Henry Belfield, in the firm of H. Belfield & Co., brass and iron manufacturers and jobbers, 435 N. Broad Street. He retired fifty years later.

Mr. Belfield was a vestryman of Christ Church many years.

He was a member of the Board of the University of Pennsylvania Museum, Franklin Institute, Spring Garden Institute, Academy of Natural Sciences, Geographical Society, Pennsylvania Historical Society and the Y. M. C. A. He was a charter member of the old Philadelphia Skating Club. He is survived by eight children, nineteen grandchildren and ten great grandchildren.

Mr. Belfield's charities were large and numerous, but most of them were dispensed in his characteristic secret way. All Souls' Church for the Deaf was one of his benefactions, but we dare say, not the only one. He gave this church more than will ever be known. His generosity to the deaf as a class makes him one of their outstanding benefactors of this age. So deep was his interest in All Souls' Church that he often visited it to announce to see that it got all the care it needed, and furthermore he placed a trust fund of $5000 with the Trustees of the Diocese the income of which is to be used for repairs, etc. Thus he gave freely to All Souls' in his life time.

We recall that Mr. Belfield's idea in building All Souls', as the talk went the rounds, was to make it the center of deaf-mute activities here, not expecting divers religious factions to arise during his time, at least. He must have thought that the Protestant Episcopal Church was the only church caring for the deaf, because All Souls' was at that time commonly termed "the first and exclusive church for the deaf." It is reasonable to believe that he had in mind all the deaf of Philadelphia, instead of a faction of them, when he donated $25,000 for building a new church. Would he have done the same thing for merely a score or two score of deaf worshippers? We doubt it.

Mr. Henry J. Siegle, of this city, died last November 15th. He was a young oral graduate unknown to the writer, hence this brief notice. His wife survives him.

Mrs. Jos. S. Rodgers paid a short visit to her sister in New York State over Thanksgiving.

The engagement of Mrs. Mayer to Mr. Boileau, of Camden, N. J., has been announced.

Mr. H. E. Stevens gave the sixth instalment of his lecture on "Oddities," before the Cleric Literary Association, last Thursday evening, 8th inst.

A supper will be given in All Souls' Hall on January 18th, at 5 P. M. It will be under the management of Mrs. Howard E. Arnold and the price will be sixty cents, which includes admission to a movie show at 8 o'clock.

On January 29th, a movie show will be given under the auspices of the Cleric Literary Association at All Souls' Hall. A treat is promised, and all who can should make it a point to attend this event. Members and visitors will be charged ten cents alike for admission.

Mr. Charles F. Stiles, who met with a painful automobile accident last October 21st, is still at the Quaker-town Hospital, slowly recovering.

Mrs. Ada J. McKeehan was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Stevens for three weeks recently, returning home in the last week of December. Mrs. McKeehan is Mrs. Stevens' sister and, though alone, clings to her Carlisle home.

The newly elected officers of Division, No. 30, N. F. S. D., were installed at the regular January meeting.

We hope to be able to write again next week, but, of course, it will depend being able to glean news for this column.

The Capital City

Dr. Percival Hall has cordially invited all the deaf of Washington and nearby to come to Gallaudet College Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, February 5th, to witness the Board of Directors, presenting $50,000 to Prof. Harley Drake, the chairman of the E. M. G. Endowment Fund.

Rev. Mr. Tracy has made annual report to the President of the Synod of the Province of Washington. The following excerpt may be of interest: During 1930, Mr. Tracy has held eighty-five services, covering the Dioceses of Washington, West Virginia, Virginia, Southern Virginia and Southwestern Virginia. A total of 2839 attended the services; 28 Holy Communion services were held, 325 communion; 6 secular lectures were given; 2 burials, 6 baptisms, 1 confirmation, 1 marriage, and 1 Diocesan convention attended are other interesting features of the report. Mr. Tracy traveled 17,641 miles to carry on his work.

A birthday surprise party was given at the home of Mrs. S. B. Alley for Mrs. Margaret Harrison, by the ladies of the Washington Card Club Tuesday evening, January 6th. All lady members and the writer were present, loaded with gifts. Mrs. Harrison thought Mrs. H. C. Merrill, of Syracuse, N. Y., was the victim and helped the ladies plan accordingly. After an hour of playing cards, and Mrs. Alley, the instigator of the whole affair, arose and silenced the players with her right hand. All looked up, Mrs. Harrison was so proud to sit by Mrs. Merrill her supposed victim. Mrs. Alley then looked smilingly at Mrs. Harrison with "This is for you, Margaret." All swarmed around her with "I love you." Mrs. Harrison smiled sweetly, but was speechless. The gifts were numerous and useful, and included cash. Mrs. Alley served the guests with punch and cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Benson, of Frederick, Md., spent the New Year holidays with their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Benson, at Gallaudet College on Kendall Green. After a few days' stay Mrs. Benson went with her daughter, Miss Mary Benson, to Knoxville, Tenn., for a short visit. Miss Mary Benson is a member of the Knoxville school staff. Mr. Benson lingered here a little longer and made some calls on several of his old-time friends. He spent Sunday at the home of the Duvals, and later they attended the divine services at the Baptist Mission conducted by Rev. A. D. Bryant.

The following article was taken from the Washington Post of January 3d:—

Harry Gordon, street corner needle peddler, who displayed a card reading "I am deaf and dumb," had a fit of absent-mindedness when patrolman Raymond Tarr started to ask him questions.

"Do you live in this neighborhood?" asked the officer.

"No, I'm a stranger around here," replied Gordon, it was testified in Police Court. He was fined ten dollars and costs.

A search of Gordon's living quarters revealed a number of shares of stock in various enterprises and a bank book showing sixty-seven dollars balance, police said.

In the local papers the name of Mr. S. B. Alley was printed in head letters as the Washington officer of the West Virginia Association of the Deaf, of which a State Charter has been granted.

The Washington Division, No. 46, N. F. S. D., held its business meeting, with the new President, Mr. E. E. Bernsdorf, in the chair, Wednesday night, January 7th. Mr. Louis Pucci resigned as Treasurer-elect and Mr. S. B. Alley was then elected to succeed himself for the term of 1931.

The social program of Washington Division, No. 46, is as follows:—

Saturday night, February 14th—St. Valentine Social, A. J. Rose, chairman.

Saturday night, March 14th—Open Annual Anniversary Smoker.

Saturday, August 15th—Excursion to Seaside Park, Chesapeake Beach.

Saturday night, October 10th—Open Supper.

Thursday night, December 31st—Watch Night Social.

Chairmen will be appointed later for each social. The meeting place is N. E. Masonic Temple.

A card party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Souder, in honor of Mrs. Clerc, Friday evening, January 2d. The invited guests were Mrs. Clerc, her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Lowell, Miss Jones, Mr. Werdig, Mrs. Council and Mrs. Colby. Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Souder.

The engagement of Miss Jennie Jones and Mr. Robert Werdig has been announced. They are now receiving congratulations.

Mrs. Clerc, sister of Miss Jennie Jones, who has been visiting her and folks during the holidays, returned home Tuesday, January 6th.

Mrs. R. J. Stewart entertained Misses Viola Servold, K. Slocum and Lucile Jones, to an oyster luncheon Friday, December 26th.

Miss Harriet Hall, of the Fanwood school, surprised Mrs. R. J. Stewart Sunday morning, January 4th. She came on the excursion train. She returned to New York City the following evening.

Mrs. H. L. Tracy entertained Mrs. H. C. Merrill, of Syracuse, N. Y., her daughter, Mrs. Thelma Stewart, and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Stewart, to a dinner Friday evening, January 2d.

Estella, bright little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wood, is on the sick list. We hope she is on the road to speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Hauser returned on January 7th, from their honeymoon trip by motor in North Carolina, their native State. They have resumed duties at the Government Printing Office and Census Bureau, respectively. They are now domiciled for a temporary period at 638 Lexington Place, N. E.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Duval spent their Yuletide holidays with their folks among the beautiful snow-capped mountains, near Hot Springs, Va. They expressed themselves as delighted with the proverbial hospitality and typical Southern cooking.

The ladies of the Guild of St. Barnabas' Mission spent the evening with Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Tracy at their home, January 6th.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Duval entertained Mrs. Margaret Harrison to a birthday dinner, at their home, Sunday evening at six, January 4th. Among the guests were Mr. Arlie Gray, of Oklahoma, and Mr. H. G. Benson, of Frederick, Md.

St. Barnabas' Mission to the Deaf has been recognized as one of the branches of St. Mark's Church, and the Reverend H. Lorraine Tracy has been named a member of the Staff of the Church, much to the pride of the members.

The Evangel, the official journal of St. Mark's Church, contains frequent mention of the doings of St. Barnabas' Mission to the Deaf.

Mrs. C. C. COLBY.

Baltimore, Md.

One of the newest members of the local deaf colony is making good in competition with the normal population. Anthony Hajna, a 1930 graduate of Gallaudet College, who entered the Johns Hopkins Graduate School last fall, has been named the recipient of a free scholarship in that institution. Hajna's fine work during the first semester, just ended, was one of the best examples of work done in the Graduate school, and in the eyes of the authorities in charge, this work coming from a totally deaf student was even more astounding. Having found that Hajna had real enthusiasm and a love for bacteriology, the Advisory Board of the Faculty of the School of Hygiene and Public Health has recommended Hajna to the President of Johns Hopkins University for a free scholarship.

Hajna received the free scholarship at the opening of the second semester on January 2d. Hajna is now a full fledged candidate for the degree of Master of Science, and will graduate with the class of 1932. If plans do not go awry and financial means are available, Hajna is contemplating to study for a doctorate and a doctor's degree after attaining the master's degree.

Tilden, Noted Artist

All his life, Douglas Tilden, deaf-mute sculptor of Berkeley, Cal., has served Art.

But Art, ever a faithless mistress, has refused to serve Tilden, and today, at 71, his studio is crammed with the fine creations of his own hands but empty of food or money. Tilden is compelled to ask that a State old-age pension be granted to him.

To the last he battled against Fate. Only a few intimate friends knew of his struggle. The world, engrossed in its own struggles, surged forward and forgot the man whose sculptures will live long after he has passed.

Millions passing down Market Street, San Francisco, stop to admire his statue to the Mechanics; millions have marked the arrested action of his bronze "Baseball Player" in Golden Gate Park.

Few knew that their creator, old, deaf and dumb, sat in his tiny Berkeley studio under the light of a kerosene lamp because his electric light had been cut off for non-payment, and that he drank water borrowed in pails from the neighbors for the same reason.

Too proud to let the world know of his situation, the artist would still have been suffering the pinch of penury had not friends reported his case to the authorities.

Berkeley police looked him up, found that he was indeed in dire need, and relief came at once. Even his wife, who divorced him in 1926 because of temperamental differences, hastened to his side, and is comforting him in his extremity.

She, too, is a deaf-mute, and their conversation is carried on in sign-language.

His creation, done as a plaster model, "Spirit of the City," may be revised now that the bridge spanning the bay between Oakland and San Francisco is to become an accomplished fact.

The aged sculptor already plans to use this design in a huge fireplace for the new Bohemian Club building, if it is acceptable to members of that organization of which in better days, he himself was a prominent member.

He would use the two nude figures over the big mantel, while above he would use figures representing the Owls of Wisdom—migrating to the club's equally famous Redwood Grove for their annual frolic.

Tilden was born at Chico, Butte County, May 1, 1860, son of Dr. W. P. Tilden of Maryland, and of Mrs. C. M. Tilden-Brown of San Francisco. His ancestors were of British origin, who carried arms in the days of the cavaliers.

At the age of five an attack of scarlet fever left him a deaf-mute. He was educated at the state school for the deaf, Berkeley, and taught there for eight years.

He went to New York and Paris and returned to the Eastbay. He created the "Baseball Player" in 1889, and it was bought by the city San Francisco and placed among the statuary collection in Golden Gate Park.

Another athletic work, the "Tired Boxer," found its way to San Francisco's Olympic Club, and yet another famous picture of youth in action, "The Football Players," stands in the campus of the University of California.

Then the bad times came.

The Panama-Pacific Exposition refused a work of his, and it hurt his pride. "The World War came. Art stood still while men killed each other for the sake of peace.

Tilden donned overalls and worked in an Eastbay engineering factory, so that the artist himself might live.

The world has gone on, and it had forgotten the deaf-mute worker in marble and bronze. He had a chance to sell his great statue, "The Bear Hunt," that was exhibited in the Paris Salon in 1892. He had the statue broken and sold for scrap metal, rather than accept the low figure offered for its purchase.

The Bohemian Club helped him, unobtrusively, delicately. The Berkeley Welfare Club tried to do so, and was repulsed.

"That was only a war episode, that smashing of the Bear Hunt statue," he wrote on his pad today. It was indeed a "war episode"—the artist's war with a world that he felt would degrade his art.

He worked once in creating fabled animals for a great motion picture by First National, depicting the early days of Creation. It was called "The Lost World." He was happy in this work, but there was little room in the movies for his art.

Outdoors, in the little walled-in garden that closes the artist from the busy world beyond his gates, stand replicas of several of his statues. They, taken alone as examples of his art, stamp him as great.—Ex.

The Social of the Stamford Deaf-Mutes will be held at St. John's Parochial School, on Bell and Atlantic Streets, January 17th, at 8 P. M. Admission, is twenty-five cents.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Edna Paulo, of Canada, to Mr. Gustave Lindenschmidt, Jr., of New York City.

CHICAGO

Hey! you—both young and old—Chicago Division, No. 106, will give the most attractive event in Chicago for January, on the 31st. It will be an interesting combination of entertainment, in which all who come will find that which will appeal most to each—boxing, wrestling, "500," buncos and dancing.

Chicago Division, No. 106, Auxiliary held a Christmas party. There are over twenty in the auxiliary, and all were present, as well as some visitors. Each of the members contributed a nice gift to the grab-bag, which was greatly appreciated by the committee. There were also twelve children, and each received a present. A pound box of candy was also distributed, as well as ice-cream and cake. A fine time was reported. Mrs. Thiele and Mrs. Carr had the affair in charge.

Winning three out of five, the Illinois State School for the Deaf basketball team made good in its first Holiday Expedition, under direction of Coach Robey Burns, and will probably make the affair an annual undertaking.

Burns took eleven boys on an eleven-day tour, December 16th to 27th. They beat Joliet, 28 to 17; Waukegan 13 to 9 (first game the powerful Waukeges lost this season); and the Wisconsin School for the Deaf, 19 to 12. They lost 25 to 11, to the Bloom High School of Chicago Heights, and lost 20 to 9, to Chicago's De LaSalle—last year's national Catholic prep champions.

While here, Burns took his boys to such points of interest as Fields Museum, the planetarium, aquarium, Home for Deaf, stock yards, etc. Wouldn't it have been wonderful if you and I had enjoyed such educational advantages when we were kids, brother? "The world do move."

"In Chicago high schools," says Burns, "the boys are allowed to participate in only one major sport, consequently they develop powerfully specialized teams. My men take part in four major sports—football, basketball, baseball and track, hence are at a disadvantage. Captain Geo. 'Whale' Walnoha, of Chicago, played splendidly, although undergoing terrific emotional stress. On Christmas Day he saw the body of his father cremated. The death of his father makes the matter of Walnoha's attendance at Gallaudet College next year problematical."

Many local silents are talking of attending the Central States basketball tournament at Jacksonville, March 18th to 21st. Extension of the date means better weather; better driving.

Standing in near zero weather, some twenty silents paid silent homage at the grave of Francis P. Gibson, December 14th, as Grand Secretary Arthur L. Roberts delivered the oration. Chicago first division then laid a winter-wreath on the grave—one that will keep for months. Gibson was buried a year previously—December 7th, 1929, but his last command to "carry on" has been executed in splendid manner by the men he trained. In the year following his death, even despite the lapidation due to hard times, the society has grown amazingly. Good old Gib certainly knew how to pick good men.

The New Year was ushered in with a bang and a blare. Gone are the once-gala-scandal parties of the old Silent A. C.—which brought silents from hundreds of miles, all anxious to be horrified. The Pas-a-Pas Club was crowded—eighteen tables; but most of the celebrants gathered at private affairs. The largest was at the Abe Migatz home, where over fifty jammed around. Other parties were at the homes of the Morton Henrys, Roy Lowes, Paul Martins, Joe Wondras, Otto Lorenz, Horace Perrys (where the oral Nabobs met), and Jimmie Meagher's. The latter advertised "pure ice water served free of charge," which evoked a declaration from Detroit's Art Hinch in the comment: "Dear Pure Ice Water Funnels, water isn't a bad drink. After you get used to it. But bless the Canadian government."

Meagher's "pure ice water experiment" evoked much merriment—beforehand. "Who can have a good time New Year's eve without the juice that quenchers?" was the query. However the out-of-town guests—which included Coach Burns and Schoolmaster David Mudgett, of Jacksonville, and Carl Magnuson, president of the Duluth 99 Frats—avowed there was not a dull moment from 8:30 p.m. to 5:30 a.m. Evidently pure ice water does not always "throw cold water" on a party.

Presidential plums are being passed around this year. Johnnie Purdum relinquished the Pas-a-Pas presidency to take a needed rest, and Frederick Meinken took it over—transferring from president of the Chi-Frsts-Frsts. The frats are now led by Ernest Wellington Craig, who suddenly shows great interest as time for election of a delegate to Boston draws nigh. He had a long rest, starting just after he served as delegate at Denver, so should give good competition to the field of some fifteen aspirants up for election at the February meeting.

After five years as Chi-Frsts-Frsts treasurer, Abe Migatz retired in favor of John Anderson. The division treasurer handles some $10,000 yearly, entailing considerable work. Other Chi-frst officers are: Elmer Disz, secretary; Bill Zollinger, vice-president; Ed Stafford, director; Roy Lowe, Dave Padden and Abe Migatz, trustees.

Charles Kemp succeeds Johnnie Sullivan, as head of the Silent A. C. in their new-loop location.

The lecture delivered by Rabbi Freehof and interpreted to Chicago League of Hebrew Deaf at Occidental Hall, Sunday, January 4th, was one to be remembered long afterwards for the intrinsic value of thought it contained—the subject "Negro Adherents of Judaism," in which the speaker raised the question: Are we Jews a race or a religion? The tentative conclusion, to which he had led, the audience to consider, is that the Jews, in the light of the present trend, is a combination of a religion, a race and a nation. Rabbi Freehof expressed his great pleasure with his first actual experience in coming in contact with the deaf.

New Year's eve, as far as the whole Chicagoand is concerned, was a most royal whoopee. Private parties were the order of the day, in fact, they were so numerous that the deaf bragged of having received a few invitations at one time, but complained of great difficulty in accepting one and declining the rest. To write-up each and every party in Chicago would take ten columns. Hence, no names, no details—but everybody was as happy as can be.

Conventioners at Buffalo will be interested to learn that, on the morning of December 19th, Leo Coughlin, in charge of transportation for the N. A. D. convention, and brother of the chairman "JJ"—while on his way to work was badly injured by a hit-and-run driver. Fourteen stitches were taken in the scalp.

Horace Buell, who while a Chicagoan served as a Grand Trustee for the Frats, is now located with his wife and son on a chicken ranch in Texas. Sidney Howard, for decades off and on—conductor of this Chicago column, is still hale and hearty in his eightieth year, enjoying the balmy breezes of California.

Mrs. Mark Woodruff is back from a visit with her folks in Kentucky. Fred Lee was married recently to Miss Katherine Grief, a beautiful twenty-one-year-old blonde from Rochester, N. Y., whom he met at the Buffalo N. A. D. convention. Wow, what a peach! And all his bachelor friends have suddenly begun to inquire as to expenses to the Boston convention next summer. I wonder why?

This is what I call boss-sense. Mrs. Ingrid Dahl gave a dinner to a few selected friends, the goose coming all the way from the farm of her sister in Minnesota. "Let's send the sis a year-long Christmas present," suggested one of the guests, so all chipped in a quarter and made up two dollars for a year's subscription to the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL for Mrs. Otto H. Butenhoff, of Baker, Minn.

The Dahls also gave a luncheon for Mrs. Theo. Harmon, of Kewanee, who has been visiting her hearing daughter, Grace.

The Frats, No. 1, held an installation of new officers of their division for 1931, at the Capitol Building Tuesday, January 6th, at 7:30 p.m. The members of the Auxiliary were invited to witness the ceremony, followed by a monthly meeting for transaction of business.

Rev. Flick has taken a lease of another church on Racine and Leland Avenues, about six miles distant from the heart of the city. He opened the new church by conducting the first service with Holy Communion Sunday, January 4th, at 11 a.m., a large attendance being present.

Joseph Ryan and Justice O'Brien, nephews of Pat. O'Brien, who spent the Christmas vacation with their parents, returned Saturday, January 3d, to South Bend, Ind., and Cambridge, Mass., respectively, to resume their teaching duties. Joseph is a teacher at the University of Notre Dame, and Justice, a teacher of French language at Harvard University.

Miss Cora B. Jacoba, assisted by the Sharpnacks and the Walters, arranged a birthday chicken supper at the M. E. Headquarters on Wednesday evening, December 31st. About thirty-five members and friends partook of it. After this a play was given by Charles E. Sharpnack, dressed as a baby celebrating the first anniversary of his birthday, and the Walters as his parents. Then the chairman announced having received eighteen dollars and a half in birthday offerings—one cent for each year—from the members and friends during the past year. Later five dollars were added by those who passed their milestones more recently. The cake was sold at an auction and then pieces thereof were bought, bringing five dollars and seventy-one cents. Then those present stayed for the watch-night service from 10:30 to 11:35 p.m.

Alex. Colson, of Petersburg, Ill., son of deaf parents came here and obtained a job. He was a visitor at the M. E. Mission Sunday, January 4th. He talks in the sign-language as fluently as any deaf-mute.

Pat. O'Brien learns from deaf visitors hailing from Pennsylvania, that his namesake, who has been bedfast for a long time and still is being in Logan Private Hospital at Philadelphia, Pa., would like his old friends and schoolmates to correspond with him to banish his loneliness. Patrick has the same name as the patient and both were schoolmates at the Iowa deaf school, but they are not related to each other.

Rev. Hasenstab departed for Jacksonville, Ill., Tuesday, January 6th, to preach at Grace M. E. Church at 7:45 p.m., and then resume his journey to other points to fill some of his appointments.

Rev. Rutherford left Sunday, January 4th, for Morris, Ill., to conduct his service at a church at 3 p.m., and then resumes his tour in Illinois, Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska to fill his appointments for January.

The Ephpheta Social Association had a monthly business meeting at the Catholic deaf club house Sunday, January 4th, at 4 p.m., followed by a social evening spent in games.

A New Year's Eve party and "500" was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Ruskin, 4190 Elston Avenue, which was an extremely enjoyable affair. Plenty of noisemakers were distributed. An enjoyable supper was had by all present. Prizes were given to winners of "500."

Edward Fillerger accidentally shot off his finger, and will be under a physician's care for a considerable time. We did not learn how it happened.

Walter Hodgson now has developed into an enthusiastic full-fledged poultry-raiser, the special line being squabs. Quite a number of broods is being grown. It is a treat to hear him talk about his new venture.

Alfred Arnot returned from a trip to Detroit, Mich., and other points Monday, January 5th. The basketball team of the Missouri deaf school defeated the Kansas City Silent Club, a club of deaf players, last Saturday night, by a score of 23 to 13. The team made the trip to the city by automobile.

Don't forget to attend bunco and "500" party of the Chicago League of Hebrew Deaf at Occidental Hall, Room A-14, N. Sacramento Boulevard, Sunday, January 18, 1931, 7:30 p.m., managed by Mr. and Mrs. Ellman and Mr. and Mrs. Epstein.

Miss Shirley's afternoon class, the 8B, gave a very interesting Fanwood Literary Association program in the chapel, on Thursday, January 8th. Miss Shirley was present and the audience surely enjoyed the whole program, judging by the large amount of applause. A small playlet closed the program and was entitled "Cinderella." It was a sort of a comic play, very well played by the whole class. The funniest part was that of the marriage of the Prince to Cinderella, by the minister, who was none other than Frank Puselski, with a white cardboard band around his neck and the portly air he assumed was amusing. The fairy god-mother's part was played by Ida Horowitz and was well done. Here-with is the cast of characters: Cinderella, Anna Schmidt; her two sisters, Eleanor Swansen and M. Veit; king, Albert Capocci; queen, Alma Smith; prince, George Herbst; footmen, Frank Puselski, John Grebosz and Henry Brown; minister, Frank Puselski.

The debate on whether there was more comfort in a city apartment than a country house was won by the affirmative side by 3 to 1 points.

Saturday, January 10th, the Fanwood basketball team went to Garden City, L. I., where they played the St. Paul's School five. The game was a see-saw, nip-and-tuck affair. Our team opened with the first goal, and then the scoring was alternate. At the first quarter, the score was 9 to 8 in our favor. Then the St. Pauls put in some new men, who quickly piled up the score. Then our team woke up, and held them, while adding to their own score, and at the half, St. Paul's was in the lead by a bare point, 16 to 15.

In the third quarter, St. Paul's again made a scoring rush, 21 to 15. Fanwood once more held them and worked up to 21 to 20.

The fourth quarter was quite see-saw, starting with a tie of 22 to 22. In the last minute of play, Ward, of St. Paul's, made a field goal, and the score was 26 to 24. There was only half a minute to play, when Ovary, our center, intercepted a pass. The rest of our team were guarding St. Paul's, so he made a fierce dribbling rush for the goal, but went too fast, and was close to the basket before he knew it. He made a try for the basket but missed. A few seconds later the final whistle blew. Final score—St. Paul's 26, Fanwood, 24.

Ward and Park starred for St. Paul's, and Capocci, of Fanwood, piled up most points. The lineup:

ST. PAUL'S G F P FANWOOD G F P
McCree, 10 0 1 Kolenda, 11 1 3

Referee, J. McNulty, of Yale.

There are to be two interesting basketball games in the school gymnasium on Saturday afternoon, January 24th. All are urged to come. The admission is only twenty-five cents. The games begin at two o'clock in the afternoon. The first game is between our senior basketball team and the Alumni team. The second is between the Barrager Lassies and the Alumni girls.

THE 45TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE DEAF-MUTES' UNION LEAGUE—AT THE LEVEL CLUB—MEMBERSHIP, 4 IN 1886; 422 IN 1931

The forty-fifth Anniversary Celebration of the Deaf-Mutes' Union League, at the Level Club, New York City, was well planned and carried out.

The Level Club where it was held was suitable for what the Committee intended the celebration should be. It was held on the second floor of this magnificent club building. All told just three hundred attended. There being thirty-six tables eight to a table, and the head table, where the Board of Governors and ladies sat, numbered sixteen more.

The program, as arranged, was admirably carried out. There was no speech-making, except of the address of welcome by Mr. Jacob M. Ebin, the president. The program is herewith given as presented:—

THE DEAF-MUTES' UNION LEAGUE

On the occasion of the forty-fifth anniversary of its founding, the Deaf-Mutes' Union League once again takes these means of bringing back recollections of the days when the League was in its infancy, to outline a few incidents of its history since its inception which will remind us of the noble undertaking its founders, three of whom are with us at the festive board tonight, along with many of its oldest members, did to further the interest and objects of the organizations. These recollections written and rewritten time and again are, in reality, testimonials of the esteem the members of the League hold for these founders, a perpetual testimonial which should be handed down through the ages to posterity, as long as the League exists.

So let us return to the days of the founding of the League. We are at the home of Samuel Frankheim, at 531 Lexington Avenue, on Saturday, January 3, 1886. Adolph Pfeiffer, Charles A. Bothner and Joseph Yankauer are present, and the four youths, former pupils of the Institution for the Improved Instruction of Deaf-Mutes, generally spoken of as "The Lexington Avenue School," decided that they would form a club among themselves. The passing out of a prominent social club of the deaf, also the "wining influence of the oldest literary society in the United States," as the original writer of the League's history in former anniversary numbers paraphrased it, led to the organizing of the Deaf-Mutes' Union League. Of these four founders, Joseph Yankauer passed on to the great beyond in 1896. The three remaining members of this historic founding are with us again tonight. Still young.

As they would to hold meetings under any circumstances, and regardless of the elements, the meeting of March 15, 1888, was never held, for at that time New York was buried under tons of snow and ice in that memorable blizzard.

In the fall of 1888, they resolved to give a Ball, and hired the Lyric Hall for December 27th. They made great preparations and every member was required to wear a full dress suit or suffer the penalty of two dollars fine. They agreed to turn over half of the net proceeds to the Gallaudet Home at Wappinger Falls. There were only fourteen members at that time, yet the Ball was a success, financially and socially.

The International Congress convention of the deaf was held in Paris in July, 1889, and Mr. Nubser was appointed by the League as their representative. Upon Mr. Nubser's return, the League tendered him a banquet. The society was incorporated on May 19, 1901.

Probably the most brilliant affair of the society was staged on June 4, 1902, in honor of Mr. Ferdinand Hamar, who came over from France, bringing with him the statue of General Rochambeau, which he sculptured and put up at Washington, D. C. before a very distinguished assembly. He was a deaf-mute of great talent and high accomplishments, and he was elected to honorary membership. Mr. Edwin A. Hodgson was also given honorary membership, as he had done so much in giving wide publicity to the numerous affairs and doings of the League since its inception.

In 1903, the League opened its doors to the deaf from all schools, where heretofore they were denied membership, and from then on the society grew rapidly and many of the prominent deaf joined, making the society more powerful among the deaf circles.

The society moved into the Leslie Building in 1903, where it is at present.

The ladies, principally the wives and fiancées of members of the League, organized themselves and adopted the name of the Ladies' Alpha Society and had about twenty-five members. Through the courtesy of the Executive Committee of the League, they were allowed the use of the rooms in the afternoon. When the society disbanded, it presented the League with a president's jewel, chair and table, as a token of their appreciation.

During the last five years, the League has grown by leaps and bounds, and at present there are four hundred and forty-two members on its roster, with several thousand dollars in its treasury. In order to cope with its ever increasing growth, mindful of its inadequate quarters, it took on a spacious auditorium, now called the Union League Hall, with an office adjoining. It also has a spacious wardrobe room and is now prepared to give social gatherings, making the new hall almost self-supporting from these ventures.

During the past year, the Literary Committee, noting the ever decreasing showing of silent movies at the local theatres, decided to give silent pictures in this hall and it has proven its worth. A new movie projector has been voted upon and the members may look for many pleasant evenings at their own movies. The League also purchased a complete movie camera outfit and has been successful in taking what the Eastman Kodak Company terms "silent talks." A two-reel news reel of the Buffalo, N. A. D. Convention was made and it is being rented to outside organizations at nominal cost, thus proving that the League is anxious to spread its usefulness to the four corners of the country.

Let us hope we will be together again at our Golden Jubilee celebration.

During the forty-five years, the organization has had the following presidents:—

Samuel Frankheim, Charles Bothner, Adolph Pfeiffer, Emanuel Souweine, Francis W. Nubser, Arthur C. Bachrach, James B. Gass, Simon Hirsch, Marcus L. Kenner, Harry C. Dickerson (deceased), Charles J. Le Clercq, Anthony Capelle, Max Miller.

The list of honorary members include Mr. and Mrs. David Bachrach, Mr. David Greene, Mr. D. L. Elmdorf, Dr. E. M. Gallaudet, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Alexander G. Bell, Washington, D. C.; Mr. Harvey P. Mitchell, Mr. M. Frankheim, Mr. J. M. Horton, Dr. Enoch Henry Currier, Mr. Ferdinand Hamar, Paris, Mr. Edwin A. Hodgson, Dr. A. Monae Lesser, Dr. Harris Taylor, Mr. Isaac B. Gardner, Mr. William H. Van Tassel, of whom the last six named are still living.

The officers in charge during the year 1930 were:—

J. M. Ebin, President; Joseph Worzel, First Vice-President; Lester Cohen, Second Vice-President; Nathan Schwartz, Secretary; Samuel Lowenherz, Treasurer; Max M. Lubin, Moses W. Loew and Henry Peters, Members of Board.

The forty-fifth anniversary committee consisted of Max M. Lubin, Chairman; Lester Cohen, Vice-Chairman; Nathan Schwartz, Secretary; Henry Peters, Treasurer; Samuel Lowenherz, Moses W. Loew; Joseph Worzel.

H. A. D.

At the Friday Evening Forum of the H. A. D. on January 9th, Mr. Marcus L. Kenner spoke on "What's Wrong with the World?" dwelling on current events of the day.

This Friday, the 16th, Dr. Wooley, Superintendent of the Textile High School will be the speaker, and will likely be followed by Dr. Lowenstein, Executive Director of Federation, on the 23d.

The Annual Meeting and Installation of officers for 1931 will take place this Sunday afternoon, January 18th, at 2:30 p.m. A record attendance is expected. In the evening at 8 o'clock, a social and movie show will be given.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Le Clercq wish to express their thanks and deep appreciation to their many friends and well wishers, for their kind entertainments, dinners, luncheons, and social gatherings tendered them during their three months vacation in dear old New York City and vicinity.

Mrs. Julius A. Rathheim, of Rockville Centre, L. I., is visiting with her folks at Greenwich, N. Y., to celebrate her father, Mr. Som's birthday. Mr. Rathheim and daughter, Doris, are housekeeping at home alone in the meanwhile.

The Brooklyn Hebrew Society of the Deaf will hold their next services at the H. E. S. Building, Sutter and Hopkinson Avenues, Brooklyn, Friday, January 16th, at 8:30 p.m. The guest speaker of the evening will be the Honorable James A. Blanchfield, Magistrate of the City of New York. Mrs. Nathan Mandel will be the hostess.

Mrs. Fannie Glosen (nee Blackwell) died on February 24th, 1930, from kidney trouble. She lived at Larchmont, N. Y. She leaves two children, Albert and Emily, who will be cared for by their grandmother, Mrs. Ella L. Blackwell. Mrs. Glosen was buried beside her late husband, Harry Glosen, in Beechwood Cemetery, New Rochelle, N. Y.

Dora Cohen had a surprise shower, tendered by Dorothy Light and Dorothy Kerbel Sunday, December 28th. She got some lovely gifts. Those who helped with the surprise were Misses Sally Wolf, Martha Brown, Goldie Aaronson, Judy Solomon, Sadie Leder, Nesa Cohen, from Philadelphia; Florence Stamm, Eva Siegel, Mollie Adelman, Malvina Balaeai, Mrs. Lester, Cohen, Mrs. Meyer Weinberger, Mrs. William Plavsky, Mrs. Pinsky, Mrs. Weiss and Mrs. Reitter.

Mr. George W. Odell, a Fanwood boy about forty years ago, died on January 8th, at his home in New Rochelle. He is survived by his wife (nee Mamie Wyant), an honor graduate of the Fanwood school.

Two of the former pupils of the School for Colored Deaf, Mr. and Mrs. William Malone (nee Mabel Blair), were at St. Ann's Church last Sunday. They were married a few months ago and may live in New York permanently.

The basketball team of the Lexington Avenue School were defeated by the St. Ann's Academy 46 to 14, last week. The game was played on the St. Ann's Academy court.

BORN—At the Fifth Avenue Hospital, Fifth Avenue and 105th Street, a baby-boy, weighing 7 lbs., on Monday, January 5th, 1931, to Mr. and Mrs. Leon Wincig. Mother and babe doing well.

Mr. and Mrs. Osmond Loew and daughter, only arrived from a two weeks stay in Bermuda last Sunday. Miss Sylvia Goldblatt, a Bonheur member, has been in Lakewood for a week with her family.

GALLAUDET COLLEGE

By Andy Mack and Alice McGunn

Study and basketball share the spotlight at "Deaf Ole Gallaudet" on these late winter days. Mornings are for study, hard concentrated study, the late afternoon for basketball practice, and the nights are split between study and basketball games. Boys and girls alike are keen followers of the indoor sports. Even the Faculty, usually only encountered behind the hardwood desks of the recitation room, have turned to basketball to assist in relieving the monotony caused by study. What is more, finally, the girls of which there are fifty-two have swung into line to match the tune played by the boys, and have opened basketball practice for a strenuous season of their own.

On Tuesday evening, January 6th, the student body cum assembled in the chapel to hear dynamic coach Frederick "Teddy" Hughes praise the members of the football squad before presenting each with the coveted letter "G". Fifteen varsity men received the awards. The lowly substitutes, too, came in for their share of glory when "Teddy" in his characteristic way explained that the subs of today might well be counted the regulars of tomorrow, because the regulars were substitutes once. Having received the knocks in combat himself, "Teddy" well knows the duties of the much abused substitutes.

Of the fifteen lettermen, three have played their last game for their Alma Mater. Heading the list is Paul Zieske, who captained the 1930 aggregation to a very successful season. Konrad Hickanson and Alfred Marshall are the other two seniors. Hokanson has been a versatile athlete, competing in all four major sports. Last year "Hoke" was captain of the basketball and baseball team.

All three of these men have played together in the backfield on the Blue eleven since their preparatory year. Both Zieske and Hokanson have been main cogs in the Hughes-coached machine through all of these years. Marshall having suffered various reverses of fortune through a series of injuries. But being an Irishman, Marshall has refused to admit defeat and has always managed to hang on somehow.

Coach Hughes gave a dramatic skit before the presentation of each letter by explaining and more often exaggerating some unusual characteristic or trait of the individual, which never failed to bring forth an outburst of laughter, particularly from the sweet damsels sitting on the other side of the chapel. It has been years since a letter presentation has brought forth so much hilarity and joy to all concerned.

Lastly to the driver of the team, that individual who does all the head work that concerns schedules, transportation, food and sleeping quarters, the manager, Coach Hughes explained, "the head man of the outfit, is he to be forgotten?" Amid a sudden burst of ovation, Frank P. Galluzzo, '31, received the coveted letter "G" for which he had worked so valiantly to earn. The 1931 season, one of the most successful both in the point of record and financial returns, was made so through the ability of the much abused manager. Harold Larsen, '33, will be the manager for the 1931 season, assisted by Max Mossell, '33.

Those receiving letters and their respective homes, included retiring captain Paul Zieske, quarterback, Flint, Mich.; Konrad Hokanson, halfback, Des Moines, Ia.; Alfred Marshall, fullback, York, Neb.; William Grinnell, tackle, Atlantic City, N. J.; Boyce Williams, halfback, Racine, Wis.; Adolphus Yoder, end, Flint, Mich.; Marion Bradley, end, Bennettsville, S. C.; Axel Carlson, guard, Denver, Col.; Heimo Antila, guard, Fitchburg, Mass.; Stephen Koziar, tackle, Danbury, Ct.; Hugh Lee Stack, Jr., guard, Bonnor, Kan.; John Vanderbilt Wurdemann, center, Suffolk, Va.; Harvey Barnes, tackle, Olathe, Kan.; John Ringle, fullback, Cherryvale, Kan.; Captain-elect Bilbo Monaghan, end, Nettleton, Miss.; and Manager Frank P. Galluzzo, Bridgeport, Ct.

Honorable Mention was given to the reserves who did not play enough in games to earn regular letters; backs: O'Branovich, California; Sherrill, North Carolina; Rayhill, Illinois; linemen: Hnatow, Michigan; Davis, Mississippi; Guarienti, Colorado; Crockett, Texas; Gamblin, Texas; Burdett, Wyoming; Lange, New York; Svenningsen, Minnesota; and Ladner, California.

While Gallaudet is only a very small college, the different classes have seen fit to muster their forces and name a committee for the inter-class tournament which will decide the class basketball championship. Last year the tourney went on the rock pile long before completion, owing to disagreement

Florida Flashes

The advent of the year 1931 is being greeted with relief by the deaf of this state. They are generally agreed that 1930 has been "a bad year" and that the year to come gives every prospect of being a better one.

The old year has been marked by economic depression, hard times and an increase in crime and lawlessness. But because of these factual evidences one should not start out the new year with a feeling of despair, lack of confidence, and an indifferent attitude. It is a time for making good resolutions and, more important, carrying them out. The new year should be a year of progress. Let us all straighten up our shoulders, put on our smiles, and start moving out from under the cloud.

Among winter visitors we have noticed in Florida are Mr. and Mrs. William McIntyre, their junior and Mrs. Shaw, of Wildwood, N. J.; Miss Edith Tappan, Maywood, Ill.; Miss Vina Smith, Lake Bluff, Ill.; Robert C. Miller, Shelby, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Scheneman, Jacksonville, Ill.; Anton Schroeder, St. Paul, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Woolley, Cincinnati, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Watson, New York City; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Reeder, Cleveland, O.; Miss Carlotta Walker, Vermont; and Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Bush, Richmond, Va. There are many others whose arrival has not been known to the writer.

Joe Behl, of Montana, and a product of the Wisconsin school, is wintering at West Palm Beach, by order of his physician. He finds the balmy climate in this section is beneficial to his health, and by the time spring arrives he will be speeding back to the far west.

The winter sojourn of Robert C. Miller, of Shelby, N. C., in Tampa was interrupted on December 16th, when he was called home by the death of his father. He has since returned to Tampa to finish the remainder of his stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tachefsky, of Sarasota, who formerly lived in Philadelphia, spent Christmas in St. Petersburg as guests of friends.

They are among the oldest deaf settlers in that section, having first come to Ruskin, a small hamlet on Tampa Bay, in 1913, where they bought two farms. They were beginning to prosper when the World War broke out. Hard work and ill luck followed. They sold out and returned North to stay until the end of hostilities, when they came back. The collapse of the real estate boom found them stranded in Venice. Finally determined to make a last stand, they located in Sarasota, where they have been to this day. They have purchased a good tract of land, suitable to the cultivation of vegetables and are satisfied with the result of their investment.

If plans of the Model Laundry with headquarters in West Palm Beach materialize, H. S. Holmes, of Flint, Mich., will be placed in charge of the branch plant at Kelsey City. He and Mrs. Holmes will continue their winter residence in West Palm Beach. Mr. Holmes enjoys the distinction of being one of the most experienced spotters ever employed by that concern.

Elsie Hay, thoroughly tired of juggling vegetable dishes at his father's restaurant in Bartow, is now attending a barbering college at Tampa, with a view to becoming a full-fledged tonorial artist.

Harry Jacobs, a printer by occupation, hailing from Milwaukee, Wis., is the guest of his brother and sisters in St. Petersburg, their mother having died a few weeks ago. He arrived there December 15th, via the bus route. He let it be known that Arthur Sears, who spent last winter in the Sunshine City, will return in January.

Cleveland Davis, butchering for White Belt Dairy at Miami, is fully recovered from leg trouble which confined him to his bed for the past eighteen weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Hecht, of Coral Gables, and their friend, Amos Moore, of Homestead, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Woolley, of Hamilton, Ohio, were more or less severely injured in an auto accident on the Tamiami Trail, forty miles west of Miami, on Christmas Day. The former's car was completely demolished and the skin wounds of the occupants received immediate attention of doctors. The driver of the other car was arrested and remanded to jail without bond, but it is understood that the whole case will be settled out of court, on condition that the expense will be paid to the complainants. Mrs. Hecht is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woolley, who were at that time visiting in their home.

Ruth Campbell, who has been sightseeing from coast to coast and in other parts of the country on his bicycle and who spent last winter in California, is back in Miami, where he works as painter and salesman.

Arthur and A. E. Lightbody, of Fernandina, were arrested at the St. John's river bridge in Jacksonville on December 26th, for violating the law in South Jacksonville to use such noise-making horns on their car and also on charges of careless and reckless driving. Arthur was assessed $25, but A. E. became more fortunate, being given a reprimand. They promised to the judge not to repeat the offense.

Elzy Pacetti and son Robert have returned to St. Augustine recently from Miami, where their quest for employment was unsuccessful. Mr. Pacetti is a first-class mason and his services were in great demand during the days of the land boom.

Mrs. Gilbert J. Akers is visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Wilhelm, at West Palm Beach, while Mr. Akers is employed in Cullman, Alabama, as carpenter. The Wilhelm family once lived in Boulder, Montana. Mrs. Akers will soon again join her husband, having concluded her holiday visit.

Rev. A. O. Wilson, Baptist missionary to the deaf of the southern states, left Meridian, Miss. (his resident headquarters) on January 2d, to hold preaching services in Florida at Jacksonville on January 7th, Miami on January 11th and 12th, Tampa on January 18th, and St. Cloud on January 19th. Like his co-missionary, Rev. J. W. Michaels, wherever he preaches, a good attendance is assured and the Word of God attentively listened to. Mr. Luden, manufacturer of Luden's cough drops, and his deaf son are stopping in Palm Beach for the winter months. The latter is having Mr. Boucher, himself deaf, as a tutor. And they are in constant company wherever Mr. Luden chooses to stay or travel. It is said that Mr. Boucher draws $5,000 a year to educate young Luden. He is a Gallaudet alumnus.

L. E. Miles, Jr., is lucky enough to be steadily employed in Palmette. He was educated at the Fairwood school in New York City. To keep himself well informed of the doings of the deaf throughout the world, he takes the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL and the DEAF CITIZEN.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Deibert and children, of Illinois, are making their residence in West Palm Beach. With the exception of Mr. Deibert, they will return to Illinois in the spring for an all-summer stay. Mr. Deibert is a painter and decorator of exceptional ability, as is attested by the fact that he has worked at several of the places where the best of workmanship is his guarantee.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Watson expressed themselves as more than delighted with a change of residence—swapping Knoxville with Miami. Mr. Watson has obtained steady work in a down-town shoe fixtry at substantial wages. Having had wide experience as a Sunday school worker in Knoxville, he expects to start a Bible class for the deaf at the Baptist church, nearest to the business center. May his ambition be realized!

Miss Edith Tappan is sold on the winter climate of Florida, it being her initial trip from East Chicago, Ill., to Miami. There is no dearth of interest there and she finds her time and money profitably spent. In her party are included her mother, sister and aunt.

Taking advantage of Christmas holidays, Mrs. W. E. Gholdstein and her fifteen-year-old son, of Atlanta, Ga., visited her married sisters in Jacksonville and St. Petersburg. After a three days' stay at the latter place, Mrs. Gholdstein left for Atlanta, picking up her boy at Jacksonville.

J. D. Hooper, claiming Cleveland, O., as his home, has been in Miami several weeks trying to eke out a decent livelihood. He is working at hotels for board with or without pay.

J. R. Quarles, the only deaf man at the Miami Herald office, who marks up advertising copy, availed himself of the holiday recess to visit his children at Brooksville.

Mrs. William Reeder and children left Miami on January 6th, for Birmingham, Ala., while Mr. Reeder continued his trip on to Cleveland, O., where he has been assured of a job with his old painting boss. For the past several winters Mr. Reeder has worked at his trade in Miami and West Palm Beach to the satisfaction of house owners who employed him.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Warren and their party are charmed with the many wonderful sights that they have been seeing in St. Petersburg and Silver Springs during the middle of December, before returning home to Nashville, Tenn. They declared themselves hopeful of a longer stay in this "time next winter, realizing as they did that they could not see all the wonders they wanted to in such a short time. They have a sister who lives in Crescent City, not far from Palatka.

Miss Lavonia Grattan, who has been coming to St. Petersburg every winter for several years, is back there from Detroit via Baltimore, at the latter place of which she arrived by boat. She was accompanied by her two hearing sisters, who conduct an Oriental rug shoppe during the winter months.

Miss Caroline L. Loomis, of New Haven, Ct., a regular resident of St. Petersburg for the past eighteen winters, is one of the most interesting persons that one can meet and converse with. She has traveled all over the world, entirely alone, and says that she never had any difficulty in lip-reading, no matter what country she has been in. Until the advent of the "talkies," she liked motion pictures. Her objection is that the stars invariably turn from the audience when they begin to speak. And lip-readers cannot understand people when they see only the profile.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fosnot have been establishing their permanent home in Fort Pierce since they moved from East Lake several years ago. Being unable to secure work as carpenter or ship-builder, Mr. Fosnot has been quite able to make both ends meet by being hired as extra help at the dock fish market.

Unknown to the deaf of Fort Pierce until recently, two unmarried sisters have been living in the country with their father and another sister, since coming from the Middle-West eighteen years ago. They had almost forgotten the language that they learned at the deaf school, and when they had callers, they were able to pick up again what they lost. Mr. and Mrs. Bert C. Wortman made the startling discovery, and thus the isolated party has been brought back to deaf civilization.

The Methodist Missionary of St. Cloud was in West Palm Beach and Miami on Sunday, December 28th, officiating at three services, one in the former place and two in the latter. F. E. P.
